

Capitol Hill

UPGRADED

Victory Road to North Temple

A UDOT PROJECT

The Utah Department of Transportation (UDOT) will begin work to upgrade Victory Road from Beck Street to North Temple along with the streets surrounding the Capitol on September 8. The project will include new asphalt, increased parking near the Capitol, upgraded pedestrian ramps and a traffic signal at the intersection of Victory Road and 500 North.

Crews will work during daytime hours on Capitol Hill, with some night time paving on Victory Road possible. Additional notice will be provided should that occur. Some construction activities will require road closures and weekend work. To accelerate the project schedule while minimizing impact to residents and motorists, full closures will be done in the following areas (please also see the attached map):

Columbus Street: Zane Avenue to 500 North

- September 8 - 21: road will be closed while crews remove and replace asphalt, upgrade utilities and prepare for installation of the traffic signal
- Local traffic, please use Zane Avenue and DeSoto Street

State Street: 300 North to North Temple

- September 8 - 13: road will be closed while crews upgrade pedestrian ramps and remove asphalt
- September 19 - 20: road will be closed while crews place new asphalt
- Local traffic, please use Main Street and North Temple

300 North: East Capitol to Columbus Street

- September 12 - 13: road will be closed while crews remove asphalt
- September 19 - 20: road will be closed while crews place new asphalt
- Local traffic, please use Main Street and North Temple

Victory Road: Beck Street to 300 North

- October 10 - 11: road will be closed while crews remove asphalt
- October 17 - 18: road will be closed while crews place new asphalt
- Local traffic, please use detour on Beck Street / 300 West and North Temple

East Capitol and 500 North

- Improvements include raised landscaped medians, upgraded pedestrian ramps and accommodation for a new overlook into Memory Grove
- One lane of traffic in each direction will be maintained while improvements are being made

Local access to residents will be maintained. Commuter traffic traveling through the area is encouraged to detour around construction on Beck street / 300 West and North Temple.

Parking restrictions will be necessary during construction. Please adhere to all "No Parking" Signage and indicators.
